

add an extra structure (the "complement") that stores the "private information" from both sides